Our Theme for March: Inquiry

This is our month! If ever there was a favorite UU spiritual topic, "inquiry" is it. We gladly embrace the label of thinkers and skeptics, and proudly say, "We love the questions as much as the answers," or "The question is the answer." Truth-seeking or reason always show up in our various affirmations of faith. To be a person of learning and inquiry is, for many of us, identical to being a religious person.

And we are growing in our understanding of "inquiry." There's an exciting humility and maturity emerging right now in our movement around the idea of living a life of inquiry. We are no longer cool-headed "Mr. Spocks" who discount any way of knowing that isn't "logical." We now make room for "emotional intelligence" and intuition. We've even opened ourselves to the fact that our bodies just might have something to teach us, not just our brains and books.

And so this month, I invite you to honor this exciting opportunity to think more broadly about what it means to live a life of inquiry. Most of us tend to prefer to inquire into the things around us: ideas, philosophies, and myths as well as the nature of the physical world. But this month I invite you to consider that there may be many unexplored treasures we could find if we turned our attention inward and inquired within ourselves.

Might we discover things we didn't know about ourselves? After all, selfawareness is prized as the most basic and necessary form of inquiry in spiritual and psychological circles. Unexamined, we tend to accept our own attitudes and opinions far more easily than we accept the attitudes and opinions of others. We often inquire into the motives of others – how often do we examine our own?

This month I suggest that you could also ask yourself some questions that usually go unasked. For example, you could wonder, "What makes me come alive?" "What is my greatest gift/strength as a parent? grandparent? son? daughter?" "What scares me?" "What makes me a good friend?" "How happy am I?" "Do I fight fair?" "Am I good at saying I'm sorry?" "Do I take care of myself?" You could even share your answers with a good and trusted friend and compare the results – it could be eye-opening!

See you in church.

– Don

One of the not-so-great results of our present level of communications technology is the speed with which we learn of the many and deserving ways we can contribute to help others. News of human trafficking, wars that decimate and displace entire populations, mass shootings, terrorist acts, environmental destruction and many other wrongs reach us virtually instantaneously. All of these ills cry out for action, but how do we respond in a meaningful way?

As I get older, I realize that I can use the gifts I have received from others to address some of these wrongs. Volunteering in areas that are important to me gives me the opportunity to share time with those who need it, and I draw on both UU values and values I learned from my mentors. But an individual can do just so much.

That is where the UUCLV comes in. Our congregation, with its strong sense of justice, tackles issues such as homelessness, racism, gender discrimination and others through programs such as our Sheltering program, Haven, and our commitment to aiding refugees. Our facility and its members welcome those who have not had the good fortune to lead comfortable and safe lives. While I don't know what people mean when they speak of "grace", I feel a joy about sharing what I can to help others along, with only the hope that they will "pay it forward".

Our outreach work is done through committees and task forces, all volunteer. Those who step up to serve on a committee, as a member or as chair, give of their time and talents to facilitate our missions. This gracious service is often unnoticed and unrewarded, and is critical to the smooth functioning of our congregation. Please consider getting involved on a committee that speaks to your interests and passions. Join us in building our supportive and loving community!

Cheers -- Ellen Bell, Board President

FROM STEWARDSHIP

The Stewardship Committee reminds everyone that March 6 is the official start of this year's canvass, Moving Our Mission Forward. The online pledging site is up and running at www.uuclvpa.org, so feel free to pledge early. Or fill out the pledge card that you received in the stewardship mailing and mail it to church or place it in the collection basket. Anyone who has not pledged by March 6 will be assigned to a canvassing volunteer; please welcome your canvasser when he or she calls to set up a visit.

After church on Sunday, March 6, Dorothy Cockrell will hold an orientation for our greatly appreciated canvassing volunteers. Please attend this brief session if you have volunteered to canvas. Thank you!

March Work Party

Join the UUCLV work party on Saturday, March 26th! From 9:00am -12:00 noon we'll gather to make big improvements in our church. The plan: scrub and clean our mid-century modern mustard colored chairs in the gym, clean the gym kitchen with special attention to the gas stove, remove mold from the chair closet walls, and other items that will be brought to our attention once the word is out that our team is on the move! RSVP by mailing us at property@uuclvpa.org. For more information, call Pat Herring at 610-965-6776.

NATIVE PERENNIAL PLANT SALE

Spring is not so very far away. Our snowdrops are blooming. I know, they are not native but they are the first to bloom. Please reserve the weekends of April 30/ May 1 and May 7/8 for the native plant sale. Perhaps you wish to help? Transport of the 1000+ potted perennials is Thursday, April 28 from 4pm at my house and 4:30pm at the church for setup. We need many hands. The sale is 9-3pm on Saturday and Sunday both weekends. Email me if you want to help or have questions. -- Ilse StollZinnes@verizon.net

LEHIGH CONFERENCE OF CHURCHES

The Lehigh Conference of Churches is requesting donations of gift baskets and/or gift cards for a silent auction fundraiser to support the Ecumenical Soup Kitchen. Suggested themes and tips on planning and designing attractive baskets can be found at the Lehigh Conference of Churches Website. The event will be held at the Lehigh Valley Heritage Museum, 432 Walnut Street, Allentown, between 6 and 8 pm Friday, April 22.

If you have a vegetable garden, let Elizabeth Griner know if you are interested in participating in the Plant a Row for the Hungry effort. The goal of the project is to provide fresh vegetables to food banks and soup kitchens. Participant gardeners dedicate one row of their home garden for donation.

FROM THE LIFESPAN EDUCATION COORDINATOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION (RE) FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

The Sources of Our Faith and Misappropriation

This year, both our 5th/6th grade Neighboring Faiths class and our 2nd-4th grade Spirit Play class are studying some of the sources of our faith. As our denomination has evolved, we have come to recognize that many religious, moral and scientific traditions hold truths that we appreciate. As with our 7 principles, the sources are foundational to our denomination. Unlike the principles, they are less often cited or discussed. The adult version of the sources can be found in the front of the grey hymnal. In the words of our RE teaching materials, they are: Wonder and Awe; Heroes and Heroines; World Religions; Judeo Christian teachings; Science and Reason; Earth-Centered Religions. When teaching some of the sources, questions arise: How do we gain wisdom from a source such as Buddhism or Native American spirituality without misappropriating their cultural practices? How can we be sensitive to the people and cultures from which we are learning?

I and my fellow religious educators struggle with these questions, and the answers to them change over time. For many years one of the most beloved curricula in our libraries has been Holidays and Holy Days. Each Sunday the young children enact a ceremony or ritual from a religious tradition around the world. Some of those lessons could be considered cultural misappropriation now, depending on how the lesson is taught. On the other hand, giving our children experiences of other faiths and cultures is important to increasing their empathy and acceptance of "otherness". Our hymnal contains songs from many traditions, notably Negro Spirituals, songs from the civil right struggle and Native American chants. These songs affirm our own faith. They connect us with the struggles and wisdom of the people from whom we received the songs. But are we doing them a disservice if we don't contextualize them?

Being sensitive to the feelings and desires of others is pejoratively called political correctness. I prefer to think of it as respect. There is no cut and dried formula for deciding whether we are misappropriating something or being respectful of it. For me, a rule of thumb is that it's okay to incorporate ideals and values that are foundational to another religious tradition but we should be very sensitive to the rituals, ceremonies and practices of that source. Native American people respect and revere the natural world. Pagans honor the rhythms of the seasons. These are values we can adopt as our own. If we want to reenact a ceremony, we should educate ourselves and the participants about its origin, purpose and meaning. When possible it would be best to invite a member of that faith to conduct the ceremony. We should at least cite our source and the context whenever possible. While we are calling others to respect the rights of the oppressed, we need to be mindful of how we may be disrespecting others by casually using their ceremonies and narratives. Respect seems to be in short supply these days.

In faith,

Jansen Wendell, Director of Lifespan Religious Education (lec@uuclvpa.org)

JOSEPH CAMPBELL VIDEO SERIES – THE POWER OF MYTHS

(Session 1: Wednesday, January 13 at 7:30 in room 304. continuing on 2ndand 4th Wednesdays of each month.) In lively, expansive dialogues, inspirational scholar Joseph Campbell discusses how myths hold the key to understanding human experience. They may vary superficially from culture to culture, but at their deepest level they all reveal the path to self-fulfillment, social integration, and ultimately, transcendence. Discussion will follow. There are 16 sessions, lasting about 1 1/2 hour depending on the discussion. Contact Cease Blocker at 610-866-3714 or blocker@rcn.com.

REFUGEE UPDATE

Thanks to all of you who have volunteered to assist in the resettlement of refugees to the Lehigh Valley. Your numbers and enthusiasm have earned the respect and admiration of the Bethlehem Interfaith Refugee Resettlement Committee, composed of representatives of all churches involved in this. You folks are great!!!

At the last BIRRC meeting, it was decided that our first refugees – family or individuals – would arrive sometime after April 10. That gives us plenty of time to continue the great preparation work you are doing.

For now, there will be a training session scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday, March 19, in the church. The purpose of the session is to deal with cultural diversity and the issues facing people coming into a brand new environment. This will also give all of you a chance to fill out any additional required forms. Looking forward to seeing you at that meeting (if not before) and your continued enthusiastic dedication to this worthy project.

-- Judith Barnes Claps, Chair

UUCLV Refugee Resettlement Committee

How CAN WE KNOW?

Looking for a way to combine your love of reason, your belief in a free faith and still get a vacation? The Institute on Religion in an Age of Science has just what you are looking for! From June 25th to July 2nd, 2016, IRAS will hold their 62nd annual conference on Star Island, New Hampshire. They will wrestle with questions such as what does knowing and living reliably and humanely now require of us as persons, communities, institutions, and whole societies?

IRAS has been taking on complex issues such as this since it was founded by scientists concerned about nuclear proliferation over fifty years ago. Rev. Capoor attended last year's conference and recommends it highly. There are special discounts available for firsttime participants. Interested? More information about IRAS and Star Island is available at: www.iras.org/2016conference.html and starisland.org/

2016 FOURTH FRIDAY FILM SERIES

The 2016 Fourth Friday Film (FFF) Series is presented by the UUCLV Social Action Committee at 7:15 PM in our community room!

The series has a strong emphasis on promoting the common good as it relates to saving our environment, reversing economic inequality, and repairing our democracy so it works for everyone. The Website for the film series is www.FFFInfo.blogspot.com.

We invite groups/organizations to join us in this important endeavor by co-sponsoring one or more of the presentations (publicize event, add expertise to the discussion). We also hope that local college and university professors and their students will connect with FFF programs that align with their curricula and/or interest. Please contact Tom Ulrich at 610-882-1136 or tomulrich41@gmail.com for more information.

MERCHANTS OF DOUBT

Looks at how pundits-for-hire claim to be authorities then take money from corporate interests. On Sunday, March 13 at 3:00 pm at the Unitarian Universalist

The Second Sunday Concert Series is excited to present the concert Four Towering Masterpieces, performed by Martin Soderberg, a pianist who has performed to high acclaim by both The New York Times and The Village Voice. Of Swedish-Spanish descent, Mr. Soderberg has been performing since he was twelve, when he made his recital debut in Las Palmas, Spain. After being awarded the First Prize in the 1985 "Pilar Bayona" International Piano competition, he has appeared frequently as guest artist in orchestras in Europe, The Caribbean, South America, China and the USA.

Mr. Soderberg was a winner at the 1988 Artists International Auditions in NYC and presented a debut recital at Carnegie's Weill Hall. He was awarded the Alumni Award by Artists International in 1998 and was invited to perform a recital at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall. He is a graduate of the Manhattan School of Music, receiving a doctorate degree in 1990. He has recorded 3 CDs: Piano Music from Spain; "Piano Music of Rafael Landestoy," and "The 24 Chopin Etudes" as part of his recording project "World Piano collection."

His program on March 13 includes Beethoven's Appassionata, Bach's Partita No.2 in C minor, Gaspard de las Nuit by Ravel and Sonata No.1 by Ginastera – towering masterpieces indeed! The Appassionata, one of 32 published piano sonatas by Beethoven, is considered to be his most compelling and significant. The Scarbo movement of the Ravel piece is one of the most difficult solo piano pieces in the standard repertoire. Argentina considers the Ginastera sonata to be the nation's quintessential standard piano work. Interestingly, the piece was commissioned in 1952 by the Carnegie Institute and the Pennsylvania College for Women for the Pittsburgh International Contemporary Music Festival.

Concert guests are invited to meet the artists at a post-concert reception. $15 general admission; students are free. Sunday, March 13, 3:00 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door, or may be purchased on-line at www.concertseries.uuclvpa.org.

REGISTRATION: UUA UNITED NATIONS OFFICE SEMINAR

The United Nations UUA spring seminar ,"The Colors of Inequality: Costs and Consequences," will be held April 7 -9, 2016 in New York City. Participant forms must be submitted by March 18. See www.uua.org/ international/events/seminar/register/forms. A welcome packet, including schedule, information on speakers and more, will be emailed once forms are received. The seminar will focus on income inequality and racial discrimination around the world. Issues being addressed are:

- Rich versus poor disparities within countries and worldwide
- Globalization's impact on income inequality
- UN Sustainable Development Goals
- Poverty alleviation
- Inclusion of women, LGBTQ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer) individuals, indigenous people, and other vulnerable groups in economic activity
- Political instability caused by income inequality
- Structural discrimination based on race

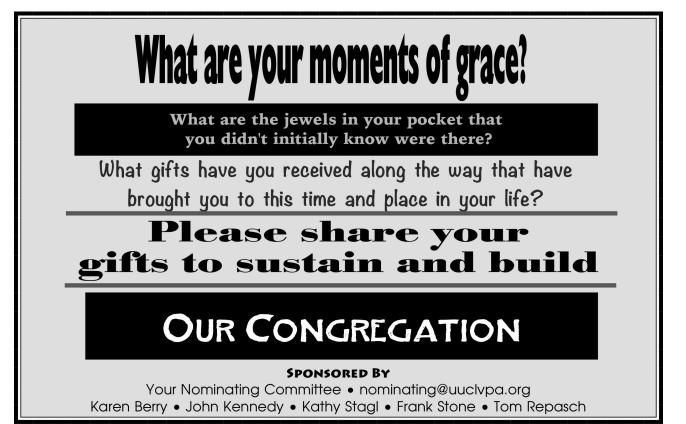

MARCH MEN'S GROUP

The March meeting of the UUCLV Men's Group will be 6:30 pm. Monday, March 7 in the FM kitchen. The discussion topic will be a book, play, movie or article that significantly altered your way of thinking and, perhaps, your life

The UUCLV Men's Group is open to all men affiliated with the UUCLV. Please bring food and/or beverage to be shared. For more information, please contact men@uuclvpa.org

MARCH BOOK DISCUSSION

Our next book discussion is Sunday, March 13th in the RE Library at 12:00 noon. The selection for this month is Bettyville, a memoir by George Hodgman. It recounts the author's dilemma of leaving New York city for Paris, Mo., and trying to get his stubborn, aging mother, Betty - a woman of "wit and will" - to consider moving into an assisted living arrangement. She has also never quite accepted his being gay. The book is written with humor and insight. For more information, please contact us at bookdiscussion@uuclvpa.org
